Dallas, Texas, February 20, 2013 – Aaron Burke was chosen as the Dallas Association of Young Lawyers' (DAYL) "One to Watch" for the month of February. Each month, the DAYL has a feature story highlighting a very active member who excels in their practice of law and volunteers in the community. The DAYL is the only bar organization in Dallas dedicated exclusively to the needs of young lawyers and the community service projects that young lawyers feel most passionately about.

His initial participation in the DAYL Leadership Class encouraged Aaron to become more active in the organization. Now he serves as co-chair of the Law Student Assistance Committee and the Judicial Internship Committee. His involvement in these committees has allowed him to share his knowledge and experience with law students as they make the transition from legal studies to the practice of law. At the same time, Aaron still finds time to assist the underserved through his work with the Dallas Volunteer Attorney Program.
